

A 3D model of part of the Bronze Age submerged forest exposed by Storm Ciara at Thurlestone in 2019

A guided walk around Start Bay in 2019. Irresponsible, commercial sand dredging in the early 20th century in Start Bay led to coastal erosion which destroyed the village of Hallsands in 1917.

The South Devon Rivers region runs from Wembury to Seaton with a focus on the tidal reaches of the Rivers Exe, Teign and Dart. Between 2019 - 2020 we collaborated with local groups to record and better understand the wide range of archaeological features on these rivers, including abandoned boats and barges, the remains of coastal industries and lost prehistoric landscapes.
